GRAYLING WINS 2 FROM OTSEGO'S

TWO CRACK TEAMS CRASH IN BATTLE.

Special Train Brings Big Crowd From Out of City.

Record breaking attendance was had during the ball games, here last Saturday and Sunday, played by the Graylings and Henry Stephens Otsego's. The gate receipts on Saturday, were larger than on any similar day, while Sunday found the grounds filled to overflowing.

In the game Saturday Grayling blanked the visitors for nine straight innings. Johnson pitched a splendid game and received winning support throughout.

We managed to chase a couple across the plate—one in the first and one in the second inning—and after that we couldn't make a run.

Bliss and Knapp were the battery for Otsego until the second inning when they walked two men in succession with only one man out. This was too much for Tom and his team managers so they put in Busch and Konan.

The game was interesting with sensational star playings. "Dago" Laur-short stop, and a perfect "peg" put the runner out.

It was a revelation to see the work of Meistrup in left field. He had six chances and pulled them all down.

Some were high flies, the kind that puzzle the best of them and one was caught after a long run. They simply couldn't put 'em where he wasn't.

With three men on bases and no one out it certainly looked as though Otsego would score, but a quick double play and a strike out ended the suspense.

Taking it all around, Saturday's game was all that the most fastidious fan might ask for.

SUNDAY GAME
The game Sunday drew a big crowd.
The fame of the Otsego's as a crack ball team had spread among the towns and cities along this entire division of the Michigan Central. They had won every game for a week. To beat Grayling was the fondest hope of Otsego's backers. They strengthen their team for Sunday's game by annexing the Bay View's Opening.

One of the richest assembly programs that Bay View has ever presented, commenced Wednesday evening by the Hellogg-Haines Company.

The remainder of the week's program includes such figures as President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin who opens the Bible Conference; Prof.
Newton Hammond and Bishop Joseph F. Berry, besides the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, which appears Friday evening, and which is one of the three or four greatest of American orchestras, comprising nearly fifty players.

Next week is perhaps the most attractive part of the program, for it presents among others Hon. Frank J.
Cannon, of Utah, the famous foe of Mormonism; Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, upon whom comment is superfluous;
Mrs. Belle Watson Melville, the reader; Edwin H. Hughes, of San Francisco, the first orator in the Methodist church; and finally, on Saturday evening Mr. David Bisham, the foremost baritone in America.

The Bay View summer university is now in full progress, having started its five weeks' course last Monday morning. It has secured a faculty of about 30 teachers giving instruction in history, literature, the languages, music, expression, arts and crafts,
and many other branches.

One of the features of Bay View is its democratic spirit and attendance on its courses is not restricted to those of large means. It has been computed that a person can spend his vacation there for about $1-a day, while a ticket admitting to the four weeks assembly program is only $3.00.

The development of the power of Cedar River is going on apace. Work is being rushed on the dam under construction a few miles northeast of the city of Gladwin. The water is being diverted from a point near the old Chapple dam to a channel, meandering the south of the river, furnishing a vast reservoir nearly a mile long.

This old channel has all the appearances of having at some time been the bed of the river, which in latter years found a more direct course. Work on the dam has been delayed by the changes in the first plans. The development is being promoted by C. W.
Kuehl, a Saginaw lumberman and associates, who have a franchise to furnish Gladwin with electric lighting.

A Pittsburgh jury decided in a case brought before it that a woman who has not seen her husband for twenty years cannot consider herself a widow. She can also consider herself fortunate that such a husband disappeared instead of staying and making her support him.

THE IMPEACHMENT OF JUDGE ARCHIBALD

JUDGE ARCHIBALD'S CASE TO COME UP ON JULY 25, EXTENSION OF TIME HAVING BEEN GRANTED.

HOUSE COMMITTEE VOTES TO UNSEAT REP. CATLIN.

Various Matters of Note in and About the National Capital Briefly Told.

Request for time to file an answer to the impeachment charges against Judge Robert W. Catlin, of the commerce court, was the only action taken by his counsel, A. S. Worthington, when the defendant appeared at the bar of the senate. Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, spoke strongly in favor of granting the jurist more time to prepare his answer. Seventy days was asked. Attorney Worthington did not enter on his defense proper and would give no opinion as to what line of argument he intends to pursue.

The impeachment court named July 25 as the date on which Judge Archibald must make answer to the 13 counts of his impeachment. The proceedings opened with an unusual degree of solemnity. The first order was a call of the roll of those senators to whom the oath as judges of impeachment had not been administered. None of the senators not sworn was present.

Senator Bailey declared he favored a trial before the summer adjournment and would urge such action, but that he favored giving the attorney for Judge Archibald time to answer the charges.

Mr. Clayton after a conference with the other house managers, suddenly withdrew his objection to the extension of time. The senate then ordered Judge Archibald to answer the charges against him Monday, July 25.

The house managers were ordered to file their answers to the charges by the limit of time for all impeachment answers was fixed as August 1. At this time the issues in the case will be required to be complete.

Catlin Used Too Much Money. By committee No. 2 Thursday voted to unseat Rep. Theron B. Catlin, of St. Louis, Republican, and to seat former Rep. Patrick Gill, Democrat. Mr. Catlin's campaign expenses were so great that the committee held his election to have been corrupt. It also held that Gill would have been elected but for the use of money by Catlin's managers.

The vote was six to three. Catlin's majority in the 1910 returns was 4,400.

According to the record Rep. Catlin's campaign expenditures aggregated more than $13,000. It was contended by his counsel that much of the money was used by his father without the candidate's knowledge. The Missouri law permits the expenditure of a father's money.

Rep. Catlin is the son of a millionaire tobaccoist of St. Louis. He is serving his first term in congress, and is 41 years old.

The Hudson Funeral. The body of J. L. Hudson, Detroit merchant and philanthropist, who died on July 5, where he had gone in search of rest and health, arrived in Detroit Friday morning. A private funeral service was held at the home on Boston boulevard, for the members of the family, and a public service, conducted by Bishop Frederick Deland Leete, for many years St. Mark's pastor, was held in Central M. church. The body was placed in the vault in Woodlawn cemetery temporarily.

Titanic Captain Lives? Capt. E. J. Smith, commander of the Titanic, was not drowned but has been seen and heard in Baltimore. He was persistently declared by Peter Pryal, a wealthy retired mariner, who was a shipmate of Captain Smith for more than 17 years.

Mr. Pryal says he met Capt. Smith on Thursday and asked him if the captain brushed by him angrily. The next day, he declares, he saw him again and followed him around the city to a railroad station, where the captain bought a ticket for Washington. Just as he was about to pass through the gates, Pryal declared, the man turned to him and greeted him by name.

"I am on business," don't worry me," Pryal, he said. "Be good to yourself, old shipmate, till we meet again."

Killing of Rosenthal Was Rehearsed. A country-wide search for slayers of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler, is on. The names of the gunman who shot and killed the gambler have been known to the police officials through a gambling racket. They give several prisoners now in custody in connection with the case.

The hunt of gunman that were engaged in the killing after it had been carefully rehearsed in an uptown gambling house are believed to have fled within a day or two, having been convinced that the "police system" will not be able to protect them.

Parcels Post Bill. After a dispute of more than two months, the senate committee on post offices and post roads Saturday reached an agreement on the postoffice appropriation bill.

The parcels post provision, the principal matter in dispute, was finally thrashed out by Senator Bourne and Senator Brewster of Kansas. The result was a compromise.

The bill retains Senator Bourne's scheme for a division of the country into zones within which rates for the transmission of parcels shall be the same.

Canal Near Completion. More than seven-eighths of the excavation work on the Panama canal has been completed. The canal, extending to the canal record, 22,053,815 cubic yards, or less than one-eighth of the total amount of earth and rock to be taken out of the canal route, remained to be excavated.

The great work is now working, and the canal is to be completed, the waterway ready for opening on schedule, January 1, 1915.

The Lake Shore Railroad Co. has started in at Eaton Rapids raising the track right, which is a long and tedious job, in an experiment to keep the track from "heaving" in the winter. The elevation is to be made the entire length of the Lansing branch of the road from Lansing to Jonesville.

THIRD POLITICAL PARTY IS FORMED

THE PROGRESSIVES ARE NOW ORGANIZED TO PUT UP FULL TICKET IN STATE.

FEATURES OF THE PLATFORM THAT WAS ADOPTED.

Roosevelt's Wishes Seem to Have Been Fully Complied With and "Stub Ticket" Eliminated.

For governor—Senator L. Whitney Watkins. For United States Senator—Theodore M. Joshi. For congressman-at-large—Nathan P. Hyl.

The final result of the convention held by Progressive Republicans at Jackson is that a complete ticket will be put in the field. A separate state organization is formed and a resolution was adopted declaring in favor of neither party state authority, congressional, legislative, city, township and ward tickets. Former Republican State Chairman Frank Knox had made himself the leader of the state ticket faction. He fought hard against the third ticket locally. It was plain that the Knox faction were in a bad way before the convention convened and with the arrival of Sen. Dixon and his declaration for the go-the-limit policy, Knox surrendered. When the resolution introduced by W. H. Hill, of Detroit, declaring for the third ticket, came up for discussion, Knox took the platform and said:

"Col. Roosevelt has seen fit to change his mind as to the course we should pursue. The first orders I received from Col. Roosevelt were to get a member of his rough rider regiment. I am still taking my orders from Col. Roosevelt. I will support and work for a third party ticket all down the line."

The crowd of thousands who gathered in the city chose presidential electors, national delegates, state delegates and state central committee members.

Presidential Electors. At large—Virgil Hungerford, Col. Walter; Charles James, Detroit; C. C. Dekamp, Lansing. First district—W. H. Hill, Detroit; second—H. S. Dean, Ann Arbor; third—J. A. Strong Criticism

"As a staunch Republican since the day Lincoln," says Archbishop Roosevelt, "and a former friend of Mr. Roosevelt, I consider him a great man gone wrong. Blinded by ambition, false to his pledges, intemperate in speech as well as in action, he has fallen to the level of the demagogue who plays upon the popular passion with one end in view—his own personal ascendancy. The epithet 'liar' he showers on his opponents is unpleasantly reflected in himself. This is strong language but I feel strongly."

What do you think of that? And the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, one of the most influential newspapers in New England, not only endorsed the Archbishop, but goes further, it adds: "Roosevelt's ambition has blinded him to the sacredness of promises and pledges and has so warped his moral structure that he apparently will stop at nothing to gratify his selfish desires. It is pitiable to see a great man go wrong as Roosevelt has done. It is humiliating to the American people to see the man who was once the idol of the nation, descending to the level of a ward heeler in speech and conduct. As a former friend and admirer of Theodore Roosevelt and a staunch Republican the days of Lincoln, Archbishop Seton has a good reason to feel and talk strongly. The venerable prelate might well have hoped that his days would be spared this sorry spectacle."

Official Call for Republican State Convention

To the Republican Electors of the State of Michigan.
A State Convention of the Republicans of Michigan is hereby called to meet at The Light Guard Armory in the City of Detroit, on Tuesday, September 24, 1912, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of nominating Republican candidates for Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor General, Attorney General, Commissioner of State Land Office, and Justice of Supreme Court for the term ending December 31, 1913, to fill vacancies, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

In accordance with the provisions of law and the action of the Republican State Central Committee, each county will be entitled to one delegate for each 100 of the total vote cast therein for the Republican candidate for Secretary of State at the last preceding November election, and one additional delegate for a moiety of seventy-six votes or more.

Under the resolution of 1888, no delegates will be entitled to a seat in the state convention who does not reside in the county he proposes to represent.

The delegates from the several counties in each congressional district are requested to meet in district caucus at 9:30 A. M. on the day of the state convention to select officers, as follows, to be presented to said convention for confirmation:

- (1) One Vice-President.
- (2) One Assistant Secretary.
- (3) One Member of the Committee on Credentials.
- (4) One Member of the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business.
- (5) One Member of the Committee on Resolutions.

Under and by virtue of the authority conferred by law, Tuesday the 10th day of September, 1912, is hereby designated as the day on which shall be held in each county the county convention of the Republican party for the election of delegates to the Republican State Convention herein called and for the transaction of other business provided for by law which may properly come before the said County Convention. Delegates to the respective county conventions shall be chosen at the primary election held on the 27th day of August, 1912, as provided by section 18 of Act 281 of the Public Acts of 1909, as amended by Act No. 279 of the Public Acts of 1911. Each township, ward or precinct shall be entitled to such number of delegates as shall be specified in the call issued by the county committee for the county conventions held in the respective counties.

By order of the Republican State Central Committee.

ALBEN J. GROESBECK,

Chairman.

PAUL H. KING, Secretary.

Dated at Grand Rapids, Michigan,

July 20, 1912.

The total vote cast in Crawford County was 470, entitling us to 3 candidates.

You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealers.

Correspondence

Lovells Locals.

T. B. Douglas was in Grayling on Monday.

Miss Patterson of Frederic is visiting her sister, Mrs. Floyd Goshorn.

Mrs. S. N. Insley and Miss Reagan were pleasant callers on Thursday last.

T. B. Douglas with many others attended the ball game in Grayling Sunday.

Clyde Lee who was ill the latter part of last week is able to be around again.

Chas. Lee and family are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Wm. Lee and baby of Bay City.

E. S. Houghton enjoyed the ball games at Grayling on Saturday and Sunday last.

W. B. Morshead and family are enjoying a somewhat lengthy stay at High Bank Lodge.

Mrs. Chas. Kuehl with Mrs. Judge Beach left on Monday of this week for their homes in Saginaw.

Mrs. E. S. Houghton and children returned the first of last week from the most enjoyable outing in years.

Robert Marsh was taken seriously ill last week and is still in a very critical condition. Mrs. Insley and Keyport are in attendance.

Mr. Snider of Toledo, Ohio, who is at the Douglas hotel the last ten days boasts of a 200 catch of the finest trout to be found in the river.

Mrs. Husted returned to her home in West Branch on Tuesday last accompanied by Margaret Douglas who will visit there a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Goldsborough motored up from Piquette on the fourth and were guests at "The Underhill" for several days. Their hospitality is unsurpassed.

"Tomorrow."

Ausable River Breeze.

Bernie Rabbit was home again for a short visit.

John Stephan is remodeling one of his log cottages.

There are a lot of fishermen on the stream these days.

Rev. Kirkpatrick is again with us. He is stopping at Geo. Stephan's.

Mr. Lockwood and three friends, of Saginaw, are at Henry Stephan's for a few days fishing.

Mr. F. W. Steker, of Cleveland, O., caught a 13½ inch German Brown trout last Sunday evening.

Some of the fishermen are taking some of Mrs. P. Mosher's fancy lace work home to their wives in Cleveland and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerod, of Toledo, are again in town. Their daughters will join them this week. Mrs. Gerod proposes to beat Mr. Gerod again in size and number of fish caught, this season.

The fishing is rather slow these days, but the Messrs. Stecker, Hanneker, Smith and Wilson of Cleveland, who have been here two weeks, caught enough to eat three times a day and gave some to friends and even strangers going down the stream who were less fortunate than themselves, and left a number of large ones for the next party to eat. O, but they get them at the riverside farm.

Beaver Creek Breeze.

Mr. John Hanna lost a fine heifer last week.

W. A. Holliday of Chicago has been a guest at Forest View Farm during the past week.

Mrs. James Cook returned from Flint where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Mary Stewart and daughter, Miss Jessie, who have been visiting in Beaver Creek returned to their home in Flint Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw have their two little granddaughters, Annette and Lucile Jackson of Detroit spending their vacation with them.

A merry crowd of young folks gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ames last Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being the birthday of their son, Alvah. Besides the young people, Mrs. Benedict and Dr. and Mrs. Merriam of Grayling were present; that date being also Dr. Merriam's birthday. Games and dancing were indulged in by all and a sumptuous repast was served by Mrs. Ames. Everyone had a fine time.

base line and beat it out. Later he scored.

In the fourth inning the Otsego's had three on bases and none out, and one by one they crossed the plate for three scores. This made four scores for the visitors and our row of four goose eggs didn't look good to us. BUT!—we started in the fifth and got two scores. We kept it up in the sixth and no more was the tumult and riotous conduct continued in Otsego's camp. They wore the smile of sportsmen but looked as though it hurt.

Four hamlets silver-pileors had scored the base line all the way round, giving us six scores.

At this time the score was 4 to 6 in our favor. Otsego's gained again in the seventh and nearly scored again in the ninth.

Throughout this game was exciting and full of interest, and the immense crowd went away highly pleased.

From a professional standpoint the game was not up to the standard of Saturday's game. It wasn't so fast and there was greater uncertainty on the part of the players on both sides.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Resentment That Helped to Expose Standard Oil.

Samuel Andrews, Once Indispensable to the Company, Had Been Discharged, So He Told Many of The Trust's Secrets.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

I told recently the story of the reception I received at the offices of the Standard Oil company at Cleveland in 1878 at a time when I had been instructed by the late Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, to make a thorough investigation of the origin, growth and methods of the Standard Oil company. That was in 1878, and the report which I then made was the first of any length that was ever printed on the oil trust.

I had met a perfect Chinese wall, at the offices of the Standard Oil company, the sentry of which was one of the blandest and politest young men whom I had ever met. I told him that as I could not get my information at first hand I would undertake to secure it at second hand. So I turned to Samuel Andrews. I had received an intimation that if I would call upon Mr. Andrews at his home in the suburbs of Cleveland I would probably find him ready to talk.

Mr. Andrews was the practical man of the first Standard Oil combination. He was an experienced, in fact, a very able, refined. He was of English birth and had, I believe, learned his trade in that country. He was the man who made it possible for the Rockefeller brothers to manufacture and market a very high grade of kerosene oil. As he was at first indispensable, he was carried along in the various promotions out of which the Standard Oil trust, so-called, was perfected.

In reply to a note, Mr. Andrews wrote me that if I would call at his house at a certain hour some morning, he would be glad to see me. His home was a beautiful one, perhaps two miles from the center of Cleveland. I found him in his library. Although of quiet manner, dressed in immaculate taste, and surrounded by luxurious furniture and adornments, yet it was apparent that Mr. Andrews had known hard labor, and labor with the hands. There was no vanity or false pride about the man, and I thought that he was enjoying the riches that had come to him in a most reasonable manner. If there were any ostentation it was not for his sake, but for the sake of his family.

"You know I am no longer connected with the Standard Oil company," Mr. Andrews said, by way of preface. "I am out of it. I have been used for all the value that is in me and I presume that I am no longer useful."

I thought I detected a hint of resentment or chagrin in Mr. Andrews' manner, and I told him frankly that I had heard that he had been recently thrown out of the Standard Oil company.

"Not exactly that," he replied. "No, it wasn't that, but I have been bought out. I don't suppose the Standard Oil company would have been any success at all if it hadn't been for the fact that I showed the company the way to refine oil economically and to market it in successful competition. I thought my ability of that kind was worthy of equal recognition with that of the men who looked after the financial end of the business. But the practical man, unless he has plenty of money, is the man who is of least consequence, and when others have been taught all he knows, then he is not of any more use and is let out. It is always so.

I shall be very glad to tell you all I know about the organization and growth of the Standard Oil company. Mr. Andrews went on to say, "I don't know it all, but I know some things. But I must ask you to be careful not to suggest, in any way, that I feel that I have not been rightly used."

He then went on to give me much of the information which I had unsuccessfully tried to obtain direct from the Standard Oil company. Information that subsequent investigations, conducted in the name of the law, proved to be absolutely correct. Occasionally, there crept into what he said some hint of the strong feeling of resentment which he apparently entertained that he had not been treated fairly by his old associates. Afterwards I learned that Mr. Andrews had received for his interest in the Standard Oil company something like $6,000,000, an immense fortune for that time. So it was apparent that the resentment he felt was not due to any sense of poverty, but rather irritation that, after the service which he had given to the Standard Oil company, there should have been, as he thought, a disposition to cast him aside. And because of this resentment many of the things that the public was anxious to find out about the organization and the methods of the oil trust were for the first time made known to it in the printed page. Major Fox, of Jackson, visited Judge Blair at Mercy hospital yesterday.

A number from Grayling are taking in the "Cadillac" at Detroit this week.

Axel Peterson has been having a week vacation from Sorenson's Cigar Store.

For Sale—An air tight heating stove for wood or soft coal. Inquire N. C. Reagan. 2w

For Sale—80 acres, two miles north of Grayling at a low price. Enquire at Avalanche Office.

Miss Emma Fredericksen, of Gaylord, has joined the forces of the Avalanche office, as compositor.

Wm. Butler and family came back Tuesday from Deward where he has been looking after N. H. Co's interests.

Mrs. C. M. Hewitt and children and her mother, Mrs. Duford, of Bay City, who has been visiting here, left for Bay City Monday for a week's visit.

Clarence Brown left Monday afternoon for Bay City and from there his brother Otto will accompany him to Ann Arbor to have an operation on his knee.

A full announcement of the program for the Organization Meeting of the Crawford County Progressive association will be published in the Avalanche next week.

The Toledo Brewing Co. of Toledo, are about to erect a building next to Sorenson's furniture warehouse to be used as a storage house and distributing station.

The funeral of Walter Parke was held in Bay City yesterday. He had been a fireman on this division of the Michigan Central for a number of years and was well known among railroad men. A number from here were in attendance at the funeral.

Hugh Oaks and family expect to move to Flint next week. They have been residents here for a number of years and have many friends. Mr. Oaks is a painter and decorator by trade and has built up a large business, and why he should want to leave Grayling is more than we can conceive. He is a good workman and his last job will stand for a long time and be a fine sample of his ability; this is the residence of N. P. Olson on Peninsular avenue. It is done in shaded style, the tones running from dark brown to a light buff, and is a clever piece of house painting.

Mrs. M. J. Conninge, of Tawas City, wife of Judge Conninge, of the 23d judicial circuit, died Monday at the home of her son, Ward H. Conninge, in Traverse City. For several years Mrs. Conninge had been in ill health and been forced to spend the winters in the south. During the last two weeks of Mrs. Conninge's illness her husband and other relatives were at her bedside. The funeral services were held Wednesday P. M. and the interment made in the family lot in the cemetery of Tawas City. Judge Conninge is a brother of one-time Senator R. D. Conninge and at one time was a resident of Grayling, holding the office of prosecuting attorney.

Ernst, Mich., July 22.—Rose Albert, 22, was instantly killed and Walter Young, was probably fatally injured at an early hour this morning when a motorcycle on which they were riding, double, collided with a coal wagon. While coming down a steep grade in Detroit street, the motor cycle struck the rear of the coal wagon with great force. Miss Albert's head struck the rail of the wagon and her skull was crushed. The dead girl came here from Grayling two years ago and was employed as a domestic at the Professional Inn, an actor's hotel. Her mother resides in Grayling. Young is the local agent for a motorcycle company.

The Bay View Bible Conference is just coming to a close this week. It has had an exceptionally strong program, presenting series of addresses by such men as Pres. King of Oberlin, Dr. John Edoom Shaw of Chicago, Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of San Francisco and Bishop J. F. Berry of Philadelphia. The week ends with a grand concert by Mr. David Bisham, the foremost baritone in America. Next week will be rich in food for merriment and thought: Henry J. Hatfield, of New York, the Opera Meado, Gov. Glenn of North Carolina, Cameron Johnson of Indiana, and Kaal Germalin the magician, are specimen members of the week's program.

Regular meeting of masonic lodge, to night.

Axel Nelson of Saginaw is here for a few weeks visit with friends.

Place your orders in advance for auto service at Olson's Auto Livery.

Norman Spencer and Harold Rasmussen are taking a few days vacation at the lake.

New and second-hand single and double buggies for sale. Geo. Langvin.

The Grayling Masonic ball team expects to cross bats with the Macons of West Branch soon.

Carl Sorenson left last Wednesday for Detroit after spending a few weeks with his parents here.

Miss Grace and Florence Hoag, of Big Rapids are the guests of Judge Batterson in Fredjole.

The Crawford County Grange picnic will be held on Thursday, August 22, at the farm of Hugo Schreiber Jr.

Mrs. Frank Anstead left Tuesday afternoon for Detroit to visit with relatives and take in the Cadillac.

Minnie Nelson spent a few days of her vacation at Johannesburg at the home of her brother, W. C. Nelson.

Railroad Commissioner Glasgow and his assistants on a special train are due here today on a tour of inspection.

Mrs. D. G. Clark and daughters left Tuesday evening on an extended visit to Detroit, Oxford and other southern Michigan cities.

Miss Lola Clark, who has been working in Sorenson's Ice Cream parlor while the other clerk had a vacation is through for this season.

Next Saturday July 27th at 4:00 o'clock p. m. is the last hour for filing petitions for candidates for nomination in the August 27th primaries.

A valuable cow belonging to Dr. Palmer was struck by a M. C. engine on the Johannesburg branch, last Monday and badly injured.

Judge Charles Blair, of Lansing, who has, with his family, been at their cottage at Portage Lake for several weeks, was taken to Mercy hospital last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Fournier and son Arthur from Royal Oak came here Tuesday to spend the summer at Portage Lake. They are always welcome here to their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Klatt and son Leonard of Detroit have been camping at Portage Lake for the last two weeks, they are now the guests of Mrs. Klatt's mother, Mrs. Johanna Hanson.

L. P. Olson's youngest boy, who a couple of weeks ago fell into a mortar box and burned his arm very seriously, is improving so he is around once more, but the arm is very sore, yet.

Melvin Brown, who has been employed at the City Restaurant, went to Bay City and Saginaw for a brief visit with relatives. His brother being in grocery business in Bay City and his sister in Saginaw.

Mrs. Eli Forbush of Frederic is visiting her daughter Mrs. Wilbur, for a few days. She says the apple crop at the Ward orchard is going to be a very satisfactory yield this year. That means tens of thousands of bushels.

A marriage ceremony was held at the county clerk's office, last week Thursday, July 18. The principles in the affair were George A. Wiggins, of Marquette and Lizzie McDonald, of Grayling. Justice Mahon tied the knot.

An uninviting-looking individual was apprehended by Sheriff Benedict and taken to jail Sunday. He was barefoot, had no hat and his clothes were rags and dirt. He seemed to be demented and was working his way toward Traverse City, where he claims his mother is living. He hardly looked like a human being. He was given a bath and will be sent out of town.

The Bay City Tribune this morning states that Health Officer Goodwin claims, that Izen, the "leper," was more of a resident of Grayling than Bay City, and in event of his return to Michigan should be sent here. This is a mistake as no such person ever lived here. Izen has a sister at Gaylord, where he has often visited, and it is probable that Mr. Goodwin made a mistake in the town.

The Odd Fellows held their annual fishing trip beginning Saturday and ending with a banquet at their hall Tuesday night. Several parties were formed and each tried to out-do the other in number of fish caught. One party consisting of M. Simpson, P. Borehara, Carl and Chris Jensen, Geo. Larson, Al Roberts and Jas. Olson, went to the Little Manistee; Hans Peterson, Frank Mills, Guy Slade and Paul Ziebell went to the south branch of the AuSable and Geo. McCullough and Geo. Bellmore went to the Muskegon River. All together they caught about 200 beauties. A fine fish banquet was held Tuesday night, covers being laid for fifty. This annual event with the Odd Fellows is always looked forward to with great anticipation and a good time is always had. The only accident that occurred on this outing happened to Paul Ziebell, who stepped upon a large round stone and slipped into a deep hole and went under, and losing his hat. Outside of getting his clothes soaked, his shoes, ears, eyes, nose and mouth full of water, he came out perfectly dry. This was as usual a pleasant event with the I. O. O. F.

Mrs. William Fisher Jr. has gone to visit her parents near Mt. Pleasant.

Anna Nilson is spending her vacation at Detroit as the guest of Miss Elida Peterson who will return with her Friday.

Sorenson Bros. have planted some neat mile posts along the Portage lake road. Some miscreant had the nerve to pull up one of them and break it. If discovered he should be arrested and fined.

Go to the "Underhill," one and one half miles north of Lovells, Crawford county, Michigan, for fishing and hunting on the North Branch of the AuSable River. Rates: $2.00 per day. Free bus meets all trains. For auto, phone or call at N. P. Olson's Auto Livery, Grayling. 5-16-26

Mrs. J. Hinesman has returned to Detroit, she was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Geo. Hinesman, or who expects to visit a few days in the city.

The National Press Tour.

The annual meeting, mentioned last week, of the N. P. A. in Chicago, ended June 27, and was certainly one of the best ever held in point of interest and instructive papers presented, together with the exhibit of almost everything needed in a modern print shop, made by the large dealers of that city, who lead the world in their respective lines.

With our special Pullman train we left the C. & N. W. depot in the morning, and about 1 o'clock p. m., Friday, arrived at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, where a sumptuous dinner was awaiting us at the Cataract hotel, followed by an auto drive through the business and residence districts of the city, stopping suddenly by the massive walls of the state prison, and quickly guided through the iron gates which were as quickly closed and locked behind us. The officers guided us through every department and it was unanimously decided that it was a model institution of its kind, cleanly and sanitary and conducted on a strictly business basis, the work of the prisoners being largely the manufacture of binder twine and of workmen's shirts, all machinery being run by electric motors. Warden O. S. Svenson looked over our report and decided he would not want such a gang left in his charge, and ordered the guards to turn us out in the beautiful park in front of the tables were loaded with ice cold lemonade, which was refreshing after the tramp through the hot rooms, and as usual with discharged convicts, we were photographed on and around the steps of the main entrance.

From the eminence on which the prison is located could be seen the beautiful "Queen City" and the wonderfully productive agricultural district surrounding it.

The autos were filled again, and the balance of the city rapidly toured, unloading us again at the Cataract for supper, and the usual speeches of welcome and response, followed with poetry and music and more speeches of "felicity" I should call them, until at midnight we were on board of our train for Watertown where we arrived in time for breakfast at the excellent Kampuka Hotel, which was most inviting and splendidly served. Autos were in evidence at the close of the meal, and a ride through the city and through miles of as fine agricultural country as one would wish to see, unloading us at lake Kampiska across of which we were taken by a fine launch, where our train was in waiting to convey us to Aberdeen, where we arrived three hours late because of the breaking of a connection road on one engine, and being obliged to run the last forty miles with the use of but one cylinder. Though late, the citizens had a dinner warm, fit for a party of kings and queens, which could not have been received with greater hospitality than we were, and if we were to be obliged to move from Michigan for a rural home, we would start for the vicinity of Aberdeen.

As I stepped off the train I found my neck encircled with fair arms and received "steep" sweet kisses with the delectable name of "Grandpa" between. They came from the rosy lips of our "grand daughters" known by many of our people as Minnie Manning who with her mother used to live on our ranch in Canada county. She is now Mrs. Schumann and introduced us to her husband and two bouncing boys—after our wife had interfered with our fascinating exercise.

Consider us enroute to Huron, cutting out the expected stop at Redfield till next week. O. Palmer.

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN

Tailored Hat Designed for the Modish Black Velour

A velour hat has been deemed most serviceable by fashion for outings. The hat in the picture has the wide cravat bow of stiff gros-grain ribbon as a side decoration. The hats will be worn very much this summer.

SMART COSTUME

Silk and wool fancy mixture is used here, the color of a soft shade of green.
The skirt is trimmed at foot with wide band of black satin, standing up in deep tabs each side, two rows of fine silk braid edge the satin.
The smart little coat is cut Magyar. It joins in front to waist and is trimmed each side with satin which is carried round the basque. A satin band about 1 1/2 inches wide finishes the waist.
Hat of Tassel to match dress, trimmed with ribbon bows and a wreath of small flowers.
Materials required for the dress: 4 1/2 yards 46 inches wide, 1 1/2 yards satin 22 inches wide.

New Leather Belts.
Inch-wide patent leather belts in black, pink, coral or light blue are cut over their white linings and piped with the white. The buckles are brass or leather covered.

Lingerie Gowns Popular.
As the season advances and outdoor functions become more general, some delightful lingerie dresses will be seen; for in the warmer weather there is always a great wave in favor of white. It will not be unrelieved purity, however, for the note of color will occur in sunshade, shoe and water belt, white in the silk or rayon frock the lingerie collar and the flounce will give it the simple touch and charm which is so characteristic of the artistic creations of the moment.
Hats of real panama with contrasting underlinings are the most appropriate and delightful for wear with dainty muslin frocks, and they are quite smart enough for most functions.

Silk Covert Costing.
A novelty in fabrics is silk covert costing, a very smart choice among the exclusive, and one that ranks high as a material that can be associated with the essentially simple tailored suit and yet be depended upon to produce a novel effect.
Kilts-kilted frocks are seen on tartan gowns and coats.

ELABORATE BAGS FOR BRIDGE

All Kinds of Ornamentation Are Suggested for These Up-to-Date Accessories.

The wrist bag which the bridge expert carries is becoming a very splendid affair of silk, satin, embroidered with floss or closely encrusted with tiny beads of crystal, pearl or metal. Not infrequently it is of heavy lace lined with a silken material or with a metallic gauze. One model is a very long and slender affair of lilac applique with genuine Irish lace motifs. About its mouth is a narrow edging of the lace and below that is a pocket through which runs a cord of mauve silk and silver threads, which, when drawn taut, firmly closes the bag. At its base, where the receptacle is gathered over a small ring, is a long tassel of the same materials as the bag. The other model of rose velvet is richly embroidered with seed pearls, is in saddle bag shape and has mouth opening under huge rings of mother of pearl. Edging both ends and running up the sides as far as the rings is a fringe of pearl beads and at the corners are balls of seed pearls.

COAT SETS OF ULTRA DESIGN

Very Smart Are Those of Grass Which Have Suddenly Become So Popular.

Ultra smart are the coat sets in heavy grass. While a few of them are entirely of a creamy hue, the most effective are in old rose, delft blue, pastel green or khaki, embroidered with white or black linen flots. This needlework, which is in a bold design and done in a close, solid stitch, runs from the inner to the outer edge of both collar and cuffs, where the hem-stitched border is very coarse and effective. The collars are five pointed and so extremely broad that one Van Dyke terminates at the center of the back, two Van Dykes fall over the top of the arm, and the remaining half extends almost half way to the waist line. The cuffs have three sharp Van Dykes, a deep one running backward to the elbow, and two shorter ones pointing toward the inner side of the arm. These coat sets are now worn with plainly tailored serges of dark hue, but they will be equally smart looking with the tailored frocks in white, gray or tan.

Summer Luncheon Sets.
For summer luncheon tables especially there are cream crash center pieces, napkins and dolly sets embroidered in black and blue, black and red, or black and green. The pieces are all scalloped.

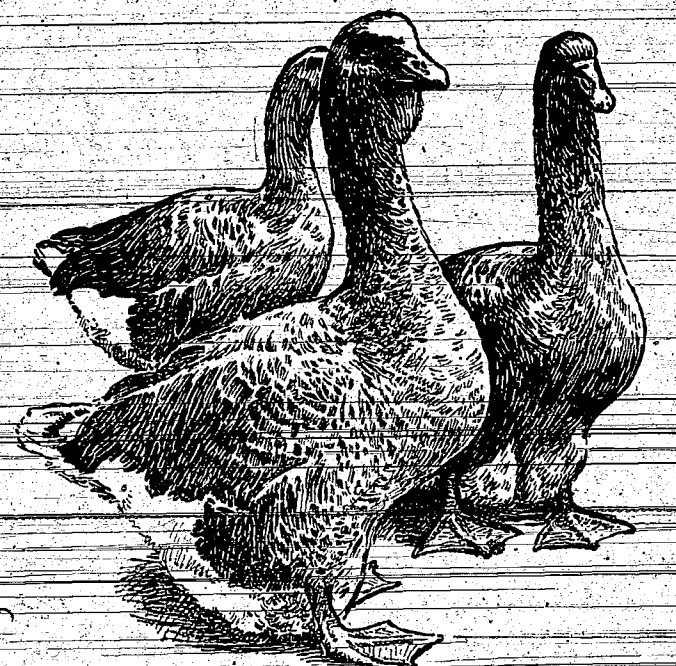

For the Sick Room.
To sweeten the air of a sick room for a patient who is tired of the usual perfumes, burn a few drops of oil of sandalwood on a shovel. Eau de Cologne dropped on a hot shovel also gives a most agreeable odor. If perfumes are not at hand an admirable substitute may be found in camphor, a piece of which may be burned by the application of a hot poker. The strong smell of the camphor quickly disappears, taking with it all the close and disagreeable odors of the sick room.

Bonnets for Country.
Little poke and country bonnets have had a great success when made in fine, silky straws which have a droll incongruity with their simplicity. They are trimmed with tiny flowers and broderie anglaise. Some pretty hats of this variety are, however, made up in Valenciennes lace, while others, again, are covered with "cretonne" and flowered muslin. In short, there is in children's millinery the same range of choice as there is in our own.

FEW ESSENTIALS FOR MAKING GEESE RAISING PROFITABLE

Business, Necessarily Conducted on Small Scale Owing to Large Range Required by Big Birds—Experienced Raisers Realize From $2.00 to $7.00 Per Year From Each Fowl.

(By PROF. L. SWINNEY.)
The raising of geese is necessarily conducted for the most part on a small scale. This is due to the requirements of the birds with regard to range and also to their breeding habits and the expense connected with maintaining a large establishment for rearing them.
Geese are the most monogamous of all domestic fowls, so that it follows that a large number of expensive orders would be necessary for conducting the business on any extensive scale. As a rule, geese mate with only two or three, rarely four, geese.
Geese require extensive range. They thrive on green pasturage and water, even without the addition of other food to their diet. It is practically impossible to rear geese without a liberal supply of green vegetable food, such as clover, roots, cabbage, etc. Geese have no crops, like hens, and turkeys, and as a result they require more soft feed, and food should be given at more frequent intervals. Geese do not become fully mature until the second or third season, and good results of breeding should not be expected from younger birds.

Under favorable conditions they live to an extremely old age, frequently ranging from 50 to 75 years, and instances are recorded where they have exceeded 100 years of age. Good geese may be profitably kept for breeding purposes until 25 years of age, but geese should not be kept past 6 years. They should then be replaced by younger birds.
Two common breeds of geese, the Embden and Toulouse, are descended from the Grayling geese of Europe, and the brown and white China geese are thought to have descended from the wild geese of Asia.
A great improvement in weight has been accomplished during domestication, the wild geese of Europe weighing usually about ten pounds, while the weight of 35 pounds has been attained by domestic geese.
The wild Canada goose is easily domesticated, and the genders mate with domestic geese. The crosses thus obtained are known as mongrels and are sterile. They are very highly prized in the market and bring larger prices than any other geese. The rearing of the wild Canada goose or its crosses is accomplished with considerable difficulty, and can only be accomplished after some experience.
In breeding mongrels, one wild gander should be mated with a single African or Toulouse goose. The gander should be two or three years old. Mongrels are best fattened during cool weather in late autumn.
Experienced goose raisers realize from two to seven dollars per year from each breeding goose. It will be seen from these figures that geese may be even more productive than sheep. Green pasturage is absolutely essential to successful geese raising. Where available space for free pasturage is not to be had the birds must be fed on cut green vegetable food of various sorts. The presence of running water is also considered necessary by many breeders, and plenty of clean drinking water is essential under all conditions.

White geese are most desirable for market, the meat of such birds being whiter and making a better appearance.

TRUCK FARMING PROFITABLE

It is doubtful if any other branch of farming pays so well as trucking. By this, I do not mean market gardening on a small scale where the amount of land under cultivation is only a few acres, writes Daniel T. Hendrickson in the Farm and Home, but where certain vegetable crops are grown on a somewhat large scale, and where the size of the farm runs from 30 to 100 acres. Truck farming, too, can be carried on at a distance as great as 100 miles from the markets if the railroad facilities are good so that produce shipped by freight in the evening reach the market early next morning.

MANAGEMENT OF FARM EWE FLOCK

Healthy Animal Will Thrive on Rougher Forage Than Other Animals, but Needs Care.

By all means keep your ewes healthy and vigorous for upon a healthy, thrifty condition of ewes depends your success.
The healthy ewe is able to live on rougher forage than any other farm stock, but it is with sheep as with all else. You must give them some attention if you expect profit.
Men who every season make money from their lambs, and that if they feed them better for several weeks, and flush the ewe stock each fall, that is, before going to the buck, there are more twins and more milk at lambing time. Many of the trouble with weak lambs and empty udders would be avoided if your ewes were fatter when brought in for the winter.
Try the plan of flushing your ewes, then follow with good pasture, and you will see from results that the plan makes most profits. Have a dry, well-sheltered "roomy" yard, with deep shed for the ewes. If you have neighbors with dogs, have a tight, stout woven wire fence, with board at top and bottom around the sheepfold. Keep the sheep in this yard at night—this will save your sheep, as well as your temper.
Value of Rotation.
Crop rotation has even more to commend it from the standpoint of good to the crop than rest and change for the soil. Many of the fungous pests, which affect plant life, including the several types of rust, smut and scab, are quite effectively kept in check by putting a different crop on the land year after year. If this simple fact were kept more often in mind it would save both loss and disappointment.
Diet of Poultry.
A chicken's stomach is not made of iron, and the same diet day after day harms them as much as it does a human.

JAPS IMPORT THEIR BRIDES

Oriental in Hawaii Send All the Way to the Flowery Kingdom for Them.

Kaula, Hawaii.—"No more Orientals of the laboring class are coming to Hawaii, and a good many of our white citizens who cultivate sugar estates are sorry that the faithful Chinese are barred under the law," said W. F. Haycourt, a sugar planter of the island of Kaula, one of the Hawaiian group. "They are our best workers, and before the exclusion policy was applied we could count on a certain regular influx of bravey Mongolians to toil in the cane fields."

"The Chinese now in Hawaii have been there for many years, and most of them are getting to be old men. Not many of the Chinese have wives, but in former days not a few of them became the husbands of the native Kaula women."

Types of Japanese Dancing Girls.

naka women. It was a good cross, was this half-breed progeny, and so likewise the offspring of the Japanese and native women. In recent times, however, the Japs have been in the habit of sending back to their own land for wives. In most cases I think the selected bridegrooms get their parents back in the Flowery Kingdom to pick out wives for them.
"The matter is finally arranged through the Japanese consul, the man in the case putting up money for the passage of his intended spouse. The hour that she lands must also be the wedding hour, for the authorities will not allow the fair ones to remain unclaimed and formally mated according to some civil or religious ceremony that both parties consider binding."

"Every now and then a wireless message comes to my plantation which tells me of my young Japanese bride men that he may expect on the arrival of the next ship at Kaula. The girl who has been picked out as his wife, I do not think that in many cases the principals have ever laid eyes on each other. On the receipt of the message the man gets permission to go to claim his wife, and pretty soon the pair are domesticated on the estate, and my understanding is they get on as happily as if they had known each other from infancy and been wedded in the conventional way of the Caucasians."

"Not long ago a ship from Yokohama arrived with forty or fifty so-called picture brides. Every one of them had been chosen through photographs forwarded to Hawaii some time in advance of the arrival of the originals. Occasionally there is a pathetic case, as when not long ago a very pretty young Japanese maid was forced to take the next ship returning to her old home. Inspection showed that she had trachoma, and the rigid rule that ordered her deportation could not be waived."—Baltimore American.

BAND PLAYS AS DOG DINES

Canine Guest of Honor at Banquet Celebrates Birthday and Devours His Share of Feast.

Hamilton, Ohio.—New York's four hundred have had their monkey dinners, other swell sets have their innovations along that line, but this town hears the honor of giving a dog a real live banquet and concert to commemorate the anniversary of his birth.
The affair was given by Louis F. Morner, and the guest of honor was his dog, "Major," who, seated at the head of the table, was admired during the many courses by a host of his owner's friends. The city band gave a concert of several select numbers.
"Major," unconscious of the honor that was being bestowed upon him, devoured his share of the viands and looked about for more.

MAN GETS LONG LOST $10

Money in Hands of New York Police Chief Since October 11 Is Restored to Owner.

New York.—A ten-dollar bill lost on Broadway October 11 is now in the hands of the owner, after having been for eight months in the hands of Police Commissioner Waldo. More than 1,000 persons applied to the commissioner for the money, but it remained for John F. Sheehan of Newark, N. J., to make the successful claim.
The bill was turned over to a traffic policeman October 11 by William Fleuger of Berlin, Germany, who said that the bill had blown into his face at Forty-second street and Broadway. Sheehan explained that the money was blown from his hand by a gust of wind. He had witnesses to prove his claim.

CITY IS ENRICHED BY RAID

County in Pennsylvania Reaps Harvest of Nickels From Broken Slot Machines.

Pittsburg, Pa.—All sorts of games of chance have been put under the law's watchful eye here. County detectives have confiscated hundreds of slot machines, brought them to the courthouse and broken them with an ax. As each machine was broken the chief of detectives was "on the job" with a dippan to gather the nickel. The county is hundreds of dollars richer.

TEXT WAS NEW TO HEARERS

German's Struggle With the English Language Praised, but Some What Mirth Provoking.

Prince Henry of Reuss, who speaks superb English, laughed good-naturedly at a dinner in New York, over the account of certain officers of the German fleet.

"One of our chaplains," said the prince, "had the hardihood to preach in English at one of your Lutheran churches the other day. He astonished this congregation by saying, as he read, that he would choose for his text the words:

"And he tore his shirt."
"A quite audible snicker went round. The chaplain looked it, flushed, and repeated the text in a louder voice:
"And he tore his shirt."
"The snicker became a laugh, and the pastor rose and said:
"Our good brother is quoting, of course, the familiar words:
"And the door is shut."

Misinterpreted.
William Shaw, the secretary of the famous Christian Endeavor society, said in a witty after-dinner address in Boston:

"There is a little Back Bay girl who is much interested in her auntie's Christian Endeavor work. The little girl was writing a letter to her brother at Yale one day, and in the midst of the epistle she looked up and said:
"Auntie, how do you spell devil?"
"Devil!" cried her aunt, with a shocked smile. "Why, child, don't you know you mustn't use such a word as devil?"
"But, auntie," protested the little girl, "I want to tell brother about your Christian and devil meetings!"

Why They Went.
As the Sunday school teacher entered her classroom, she saw leaving in great haste a little girl and her still smaller brother.
"Why, Mary, you aren't going away?" she exclaimed in surprise.
"Please, Mith Anne, we've got to go," was the distressed reply. "Jimmy th swallowed lith collection."—Lippincott's.

PATROS IN CHILDS' BRAVERY

Fortitude Shown by Little Sufferer in Hospital Touched Lady Henry Somerset.

Lady Henry Somerset, whose labors in behalf of the children of the London slums are constant and earnest, tells this affecting story of the way in which her interest in these little ones was aroused.
"I was moved in that direction by the rare patience and imagination of one little boy. His example convinced me that patience was one of the qualities I needed most, and in seeking it I grew into that work."

"I was in a hospital on visiting day, while the doctors were changing a plaster cast which held the crippled boy's limb. The operation was exceedingly painful. I was told. To my surprise, the little sufferer neither stirred nor winced, but made a curious buzzing sound with his mouth. After the doctors left I said to him: 'How could you possibly stand it?'
"That's nothing," he answered.
"Why, I just made believe that a bee was stinging me. And I kept buzzing because I was afraid I forgot about it. Its being a bee if I didn't."—Youth's Companion.

Her Affections Dampened.
A little girl was playing at the table with her cup of water. Her father took the cup from her and in so doing accidentally spilled some of the water on her.
"There," she cried, as she left the table indignantly, "you wet me clear to my feelings."—Everybody's Magazine.

Portable Colony Houses

By J. O. LINTON, Instructor in Poultry Husbandry,
Michigan Agricultural College

Front View of Portable Colony House.

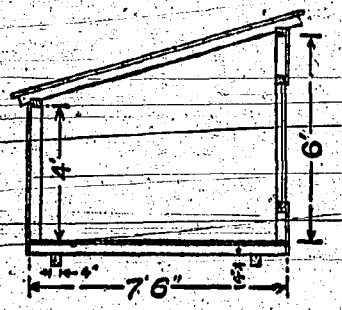

The use of the portable colony house has rapidly come into favor for raising and commercializing poultry plants, not only as a building for little chicks, but through its other various uses. Such a house need not be expensive, but should be solid to allow for hauling and moving from place to place, many times over rough ground and subject to severe handling in turning and placing. The portable colony house should not be so large but that it can be moved with one good team, and can be drawn through the ordinary farm gates to meadows or orchard where they are to be located.

There are many different uses for the colony house, some of which may be divided up for the different seasons. In the early spring they may be used as brooding houses, being equipped with hovers or having in them indoor brooders which allow the chicks the heat of the brooder and the run of the remaining space, being entirely under cover from the severe weather, and allowing the poultryman to raise early chicks. The house may be divided in two or more compartments and hens may be given chicks, which gives them the same advantages of being under cover during the cold or stormy weather and still have room for exercise. By cutting openings for each compartment small parks may be made which will keep the birds separate to insure best advantages in growing the young stock, but will allow the birds the run of the outdoor quarters during the pleasant days. If the birds are of one breed there may not be the desire to keep them separate for long, and they may be allowed the run of any desired area as they have a keen sense of location and readily learn to return to their own quarters.

As the season advances the chicks can do without hovers or huts. These may be removed and low perches placed in the house, ten or twelve inches from the floor so that the chicks may learn to roost. As the natural tendency seems to be to seek high places for roosting, this is very easily learned by most birds of fowl, and with the exception of one or two of the heavier breeds as the Brahmas, Cuckoo-birds will not need to be taught to accommodate themselves to the new conditions.

The growing chicks will need some attention to insure best results during the time they are on the range. They should always be supplied with fresh, clean water and should have grain and mash food to bring them into good strong maturity for fall business. As there will always be surplus cockerels in the flock, these may be separated just before the house is hauled to the range, which will leave the pullets and a few cockerels to care for. The surplus may be marketed at the age of eight to twelve weeks when, as a rule, prices are good and the birds have reached a desirable size.

For the feeding of mash to the birds on range hoppers may be devised which will hold food enough for a week or ten days without refilling. By this system not much time will be required of an attendant to scatter grain and provide fresh water for the birds each day. If there happens to be running water near the buildings this will supply the need, and in an exceptionally busy season the birds can, if necessary, have grain supply in hopper or depend on the mash ration for extra food other than that which they pick about the meadow or fields. If later in the season oats or wheat have been cut, and the field is not to be used immediately, houses may be drawn to a location where the birds can pick up the scattered grain, which saves a great deal of feeding and prevents loss which otherwise might occur. If the flocks are large enough so that laying houses are provided when the birds are returned to these houses in the fall, the colony coops may be abandoned entirely until next season, or they may be used for storage rooms, hospital coops, or for the mating up of small breeding pens when it is desired to separate these from the regular flocks. There are many different styles of these houses and the individual may have choice in style of construction. A pattern of portable house which is giving very good satisfaction at the Michigan Agricultural College is one which is made at a total cost of about $35, including labor and paint, and which will accommodate from 100 to 150 of the little chicks at the start, 100-growing chicks in the range, and flocks of ten or fifteen birds in laying quarters. The house is 7 1/2 feet wide and may be made eight feet, if desired, by twelve feet long. It is built on runners four inches square, it being desirable to make these runners of some material which will be lasting and preferably will wear hard and smooth by the hauling. These runners extend lengthwise of the building and for convenience of hauling may be set in eight or ten inches from the edge of the building, although this feature is very objectionable from the fact that little chicks invariably get under the houses, causing a great deal of trouble and making it necessary to add extra blocking for the prevention of this.

If the runners are placed to the edges of the house blocking need only be done at the ends, as the runners will block front and back.

Pieces of 2x4-inch material are placed on edge for joists, four feet apart, and the floor is then laid before the frame work is constructed. The studding is then nailed to the floor, being six feet long in front and four feet in back, and placed three feet apart. 2x4-inch pieces are used as plates.

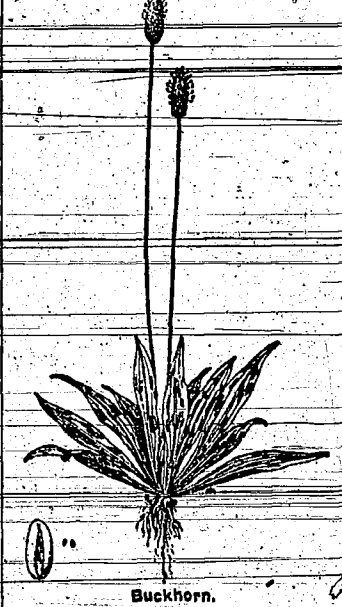

The door in the front may be 2 feet 6 inches wide by 6 feet, and on each side of the door a nine light 6x10 inch glass window, hung at the top to swing out, may be so arranged as to allow its removal in summer, and the opening may be covered with wire netting or bars to close the house.

In the arrangement of nests and feed boxes it is advisable to make these with slanting tops, which prevents the birds from roosting or resting on them, keeping them in much cleaner condition. The accompanying drawings will explain the construction of these houses, which may be modified if desired, to suit the tastes of the individual.

BUCKHORN

By R. J. BALDWIN,
Michigan Agricultural College

Many farmers who have had to buy imported clover and grass seeds will find new weeds appearing in the fields.

Buckhorn.

Among the most common weeds obtained in this way is buckhorn. The accompanying cut will give some idea of the appearance of the weed. The leaves are lance-shaped and they grow in a rosette much like those of the dandelion. A characteristic of the buckhorn is the tall, slender flower stalk, which shoots up from the center of the rosette or leaves for a foot or more. Buckhorn is a perennial which spreads only by seeds. It is a bad weed in the clover meadow, but is not to be feared on cultivated ground.

When it is found that scattering plants of buckhorn are in the new grass seedings, no time should be lost in pulling and destroying them.

Cabbage Worms; Cauliflower. The cabbage worms usually appear when the crop is heading and persistent hand picking on small areas is best. Any dusty substance, such as lime, tobacco dust or road dust strewn over them has been recommended to keep the worms in check. If your crop has headed up and there is danger after rains of the heads bursting you can, by twisting part of the roots loose, stop growth somewhat and keep the cabbage in good shape a week or two longer.

Cauliflower should have the large leaves knicked in or tied over the flower as soon as the latter shows a distinct white color, or a leaf may be broken off and laid over the flower to keep out excessive light and cause the delicate white blanching so much desired and admired in a cauliflower. As the cauliflower plants are somewhat more tender than cabbage, they usually wait until after April 1, or about two weeks after the first cabbage is set, before planting them out.

Money in Hog. No stock upon the farm is more quickly turned to money than the hog.

HEDGEHOGS TO CLEAN CAMPS

Woodmen in Maine Find They Have Little Use for the Mob or Scrubbing Brush.

If the stories told by Maine woodmen are to be believed they entertain many queer visitors in camp during the winter. Among the most familiar guests may be mentioned the cheetahs and bluejays, but these are by no means the most interesting callers.

One woodsman, it appears, leaving camp on a Saturday afternoon left his shack door open, as was his custom, so that the hedgehogs might come in and clean up the floor. Inasmuch as the principal items of the camp menu are baked beans, pork and other dishes rich in fat, considerable grease is spilled upon the floor in the course of a week, and the average hedgehog will at any time risk his neck for a bit of fat.

Just as soon, therefore, as this particular camp was deserted by the humans for a while the spiny gluttons would hasten in and plane off the surface of the floor with their chisel-shaped teeth, eating away all the wood that held a trace of grease. So on returning to camp Monday morning the owner was enabled to sweep up and enjoy the luxury of a clean house for another week. About the only objection to this system is the fact that the camp must have a new floor each year.

The same woodsman tells how, late in February, a pair of white-footed wood mice stole into his camp and made a nest in a corner under the bunk. The first thing the little fellows did was to eat a hole in a bag of cracked corn and carry away more than a quart of the contents. The whole bag was sorted for the largest fragments, every one of which was denuded of its covering and freed from all grains of meal. The pluffings were put in a heap near the nest and covered over with strips of newspapers.

When these mice had been installed in their new quarters for about a week they began to construct a luxurious couch. The outside was made of shredded moss and a lining of birch bark. The lining was of horse hair taken from an old chair.

The Duck and the Trout. As a Virginia man fishing below a milldam near a village in his state, a contributor writes to the Companion, he accidentally threw his line across a duck, which suddenly turned round, twisted the gut about its neck, and fixed the dropper fly in its breast.

Thus entangled and hooked, the duck soon broke off the gut above the dropper, and sailed down the stream with the other fly trailing behind it. It had no gone far before a trout about a pound and a half in weight took the fly.

Then began an extraordinary contest. While the trout struggled, the terror of the duck was very evident; it flustered its wings and dragged the fish. When the trout grew more quiet the duck gave way, and suffered itself to be drawn under some bushes at the edge of the stream. When the struggle was renewed the duck's head was frequently drawn under the water.

By chance, however, the gut got across a branch that hung downward into the water, when the duck, taking advantage of the purchase that this circumstance gave it, dragged the fish from its hole and obliged it to show its head above water. Then it became a contest of life and death. The trout was in its last agonies and the duck in a very weak state, when the gut broke and suffered each to go his own way.

The man who saw this strange combat stoutly affirms the truth of every detail.—Youth's Companion.

Egypt to Reclaim Million Acres.

One of the most costly and comprehensive drainage projects for the reclamation of lands undertaken by any government in the world, and certainly the greatest enterprise of its kind in Mediterranean countries, has just been begun by the Egyptian government to make cultivable 1,000,000 acres of fertile land in the delta of lower Egypt. The reclamation of these lands will necessitate an expenditure approaching $15,000,000 for drainage and approximately $100,000,000 for irrigation. The work as planned will require over four years and will be brought to completion about the end of 1915. The principal object of the project is to redeem a tract of unproductive land and bring a fertile but now worthless region of the delta under cotton cultivation. When this is done it is roughly estimated that the increase in value of the reclaimed and improved land will approximate $100,000,000. The land to be reclaimed is 90 per cent government owned.

Began Writing Early.

We have had many precocious infants among our famous authors, declares the London Chronicle. From the age of three, for instance, Macaulay read incessantly, and by seven he had begun a compendium of universal history. At eight he wrote a treatise designed to convert the natives of Malabar to Christianity, and about the same time composed his first poem. Browning, too, had completed a whole volume of verse by the time he was twelve, but his earliest artistic effort was a painting of a cottage and rocks, which he painted at the age of two in lead pencil and black current jam. But the small Macaulay was the worst. He had burnt his finger, and to Hannah More he replied from his child's stool: "Thank you, madam, the agony is abated." That at four!

Not a Moral Objection.

A dance hall manager, who could never by any stretch of the imagination be accused of harboring aesthetic convictions, came out unequivocally against the season's dances.

"I am pleased to hear you take that stand," said a reformer. "Leaving morally out of the question, they are certainly ugly."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking about that," said the manager. "I'm dead set against them because it takes more room to dance them in. My hall, that will hold 250 couples for ordinary dancing, now accommodates only 20 couples, and I lose all that money."

Training Children.

Some facts brought out in the Year Book of the Playground and Recreation Association of America are of much more than passing interest. During 1911, $2,750,000 were expended in this country for establishment and fitting up of public playgrounds. More than 1,500 such grounds are maintained. Nineteen cities have authorized the issuing of bonds to the extent of $4,500,000 for playground purposes; and in 12 cities acreage to the value of $118,000 has been given in aid of the cause. So systematized has become this "playground work" and so great and rapid its extension that special schools or classes have been instituted in upward of 60 cities for training of competent instructors and managers. "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined." The practical spirit of the times seeks to prevent the bending of the twig of childhood, so that the tree of citizenship may grow as straight and strong as possible.

Trade in Human Hair.

A little while ago mention was made of the stir caused in the European hair markets by the Chinese edict abolishing the pigtail. It was prophesied that the importation of vast numbers of Chinese pigtails would cause a slump, but there has as yet been little effect on the prices of hair in France. The annual hair fair opened at Limoges on December 29, and prices were on a level with those of recent years. A Paris merchant bought nearly a hundred pounds weight at an average price of between $10 and $11 a pound. This was not an exceptional average, as the eighteenth of ton of hair which was the estimated weight of the whole market was priced at this figure. Bids of from $60 to $70 a pound were made for white hair, and of rather less for the rarer qualities of red hair. This hair fair at Limoges is the most important in western Europe, and is attended by dealers from every capital in the world.

Fall Fatal for Both.

Two steepie jacks, who were working on the top of the North Broad Street Presbyterian Church, at Philadelphia, were hurled to death last week, under tragic circumstances. One of the men, who was working on the high steeple of the church, suddenly slipped and started to slide down the steeple incline. As he rushed past the other, who was standing on the ledge, the latter grasped him, but was unable to check his momentum and was also dragged from his perch. When a passerby who had witnessed their terrible fall reached their bodies, he found the hand of one clutching the overalls of the other, whose life he had vainly attempted to save.

Measuring a River's Flow.

In its work of stream gauging—measuring the flow and volume of rivers—by up-to-date methods—the United States Geological Survey co-operated during the past fiscal year with thirteen states, the states contributing over $40,000 and the survey doing the work. The geological survey also co-operated in this work with the reclamation service, the office of Indian affairs and the forest service. Ninety-six gauging stations were maintained in co-operation with the reclamation service 13 in co-operation with the Indian office and 194 in co-operation with the forest service, or streams draining national forests. In all, 1,105 gauging stations were in operation at the close of the last fiscal year.

Remedy for Snake Bite.

There is no known antidote for the bite of the Australian tiger snake. Persons bitten by this reptile die almost instantly, and the government has a standing reward offered for anyone who will discover a remedy. Some few years ago a man actually discovered an efficacious antidote. To prove its value he allowed himself to be bitten repeatedly by snakes in full possession of the power to kill. One of the government's highest officials, but could not collect what he had done with his antidote, and he died shortly after from the effects of the snake bites; his secret perishing with him.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

NEW YORKER INVENTS HOUSE

In Two Sections, With Walls and Roof Hung on Hinges—Quite Easy to Keep Ventilated.

A rather elaborate poultry house has been designed by a New York man. It is in two sections, one of which slides upon the other and is small enough to be easily taken apart. The lower section has screens along its side walls, while the wooden walls are hinged at the top so that they can be opened at any angle desired, obtaining holding them in position. In this way ventilation can be obtained and the interior protected from rain or too much light. The upper section, which has a peaked roof, has a door at one end and a series of roosts arranged around the sides and ends of the interior. One-half of the roof is hinged so that it can be kept open or closed. This entire roof can also be slid on or off at will. This arrangement makes it easy to clean the house thoroughly in all parts and keep it well ventilated, thus eliminating insect pests to a great degree.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Tragedy of a Queer Friendship in the Senate.

Intimacy Between Conkling and Jones of Florida and the Latter's Mental Collapse After the Resignation of the New Yorker.

By E. J. EDWARDS.

In 1876 there entered the United States senate from the state of Florida a man of the name of Charles W. Jones. Born in Ireland, he came to this country as a lad. He learned the carpenter's trade; then he became ambitious to be a lawyer and with a law book set up before him upon his carpenter's bench, he read law. Finally, he was admitted to the bar and opened a law office at Pensacola. Then he became actively interested in Florida politics, aspired to the senate, and was twice elected thereto, his second term expiring in 1887.

Almost as soon as he had been sworn in as a member of the senate for the first time, the newcomer from Florida asked to be introduced to Senator Roscoe Conkling of New York. The two men were brought together, "Senator Conkling," said "Senator Jones," after the introduction, "some years ago there came into my hands a copy of the speech which you delivered when a member of the lower house of congress in 1862, in which you asserted that it would be possible to meet all the expenses of the war without resorting to an issue of irredeemable paper money. I have always wanted to say to you, Senator Conkling, that that speech was my first lesson in governmental finance, and that I am certain that had the speech of argument you advanced in that year been adopted by congress and by the administration it would have been possible to have carried on the war on the specie basis."

That was the beginning of the friendship that soon sprang up between the men, to the wonderment of the oldtimers. In the senate, who knew full well that Conkling was a man of his word, and that if he had sworn to do a thing, he would do it, they had tried to establish friendly relations with him without success. The most of the senators Conkling would not give ear when they spoke, but it soon began to be observed that whenever the new senator from Florida rose to speak Senator Conkling would pause in his writing or conversation, wheel around in his chair until he faced the speaker, and give him his attention until he had resumed his seat. Sometimes, too, the senator from New York was seen to nod his head approvingly at some remark of the speaker, and it often seemed as though Senator Jones, while nominally addressing the senate, was nevertheless speaking directly at or to Roscoe Conkling, of whose friendship he was frankly proud.

At last one of Conkling's Republican colleagues ventured to say to him: "Senator, I observe that you always encourage Senator Jones by attentive listening when he speaks. I should be glad if you would tell me why you do that. The rest of the senate do not and anything of special value in the remarks of Senator Jones."

"Senator," replied Roscoe Conkling in his most dignified manner, "I like the man; he stands firm in his fetlocks."

Conkling's characterization of Senator Jones was, of course, taken to the latter. His face lighted up for a moment. Then a brooding look came over him. "Firm in his fetlocks," he muttered, "firm in his fetlocks." And often after that, as he sat at his desk, he was heard to mutter to himself, "Firm in his fetlocks—firm in his fetlocks."

Later, when Conkling's historic quarrel with President Garfield and the senator's resignation from the senate, and then the senate not infrequently rebuffed Senator Jones lingering regretfully and reminiscence near the desk that Conkling had occupied. "Firm in his fetlocks—firm in his fetlocks," he would mutter to himself. "Firm in his fetlocks—firm in his fetlocks." It was clear to his colleagues that Senator Jones was suffering from some serious mental impairment. A length there came total collapse, and some of those who best knew Senator Jones were always of the belief that the curious complicity which Conkling paid Senator Jones, coupled with the latter's sense of loss when Conkling left the senate, had served in some mysterious way to bring to a head the malady which ended the Florida's life.
